

Recreation and Wellness BINGO

Creating new/renovated campus recreation and wellness centers a moments ripe with challenges. In addition to constantly evolving technology, fitness trends, student interest and programming opportunities, the design process for recreation centers requires teams to tackle programming, sustainability, design, inclusivity and more. This session highlights 15 important topics critical to success. Attendees will be able to select the topics most pertinent to their questions and needs and presenters will offer brief (3 minute responses) on that topic. Allowing attendees to customize their learning.
